

Bennett Caplan

Bennett Caplan works as an attorney and a government affairs specialist on public policy and regulatory matters, primarily in the alcohol beverage area. Since 2003, Mr. Caplan has served as the Head of Secretariat of FIVS, a Paris-based federation comprised of alcohol beverage industry members from around the world and as the Director of FIVS-Abridge, a database of national regulations and international trade agreements in the wine area.

Mr. Caplan was previously Senior Director of International & Government Affairs at Allied Domecq, Director of Policy Development at Seagram, and a partner at McDermott, Will & Emery. Mr. Caplan has served as President of the Washington Foreign Law Society, as Vice President of the Washington Fletcher Alumni Association, and is a board member of the International Wine Law Association. He has taught graduate level courses on international trade policy at the University of Maryland and Syracuse University. Mr. Caplan is a graduate of Columbia College, the Fletcher School of Law and Diplomacy, and Boston College Law School.